

Louise Keeton worked in the Genworth BrightLights Education Center at Richmond CenterStage during the summer of 2010. She spent over eighty hours in the Digital Arts Learning Center as my assistant, and did an excellent job. I am the Digital Arts Manager and my role is to oversee the Learning Center and to produce video productions. I am also an independent Producer/Director with twenty years of experience in the professional broadcast industry and an adjunct instructor at Virginia Commonwealth University.

Louise is a self-motivated worker, resourceful, an extremely good listener and intelligent. She spent the first few days with us researching examples of technology used in arts education. She was very diligent and thorough in her research, and organized the material in a useful manner. She understood and completed the task very quickly. She then learned video editing on Final Cut Pro. After a few short lessons, she quickly became independent, and edited over 15 different video segments. She also took it upon herself to learn many advanced skills through her own resources.

Louise also has an understanding of Photoshop which was extremely helpful. We needed to quickly produce graphics for a Richmond Shakespeare video project and Louise went above and beyond all our expectations. We all were very pleased with her “can do” attitude, skills and ability.

I highly recommend Louise. She has the ability to listen to instruction and the self-motivation to follow through. Louise is creative, professional, and has a truly delightful personality.

Sincerely,

Mason Mills

Digital Arts Manager

Genworth BrightLights Education Center

600 East Grace Street

Richmond, VA 23219