

Louise volunteered for several artistic photo shoots I was planning during her senior year at Shenandoah University, probably knowing already that I was not addressing themes normally included in her major in children's theater. She then proceeded to play expertly and without hesitation the roles of seductress, vampire victim, femme fatale and Lady Macbeth, her hands eternally stained with blood. She drew the line at anything too sultry which might show up some day in a Google search by concerned parents. It was really a pleasure working with someone as intelligent, witty and mature as Louise. I knew I could ask if an idea went too far, knowing she would set me straight.

Oh, and did I mention that she's very sassy and pretty! .....knows how to hold a gun.....and has the figure of a goddess? ;)
